About the Presenter

Kelly Wahlquist is the director of community relations for The Great Adventure Bible Study System, where she provides marketing and organizational support for Great Adventure group leaders. She works with Bible study leaders both nationally and internationally to help them organize, implement, and run their studies, and also travels the country organizing Bible study training seminars. Kelly has coordinated multiple Great Adventure Bible studies at various churches in the Archdiocese of St. Paul and Minneapolis for over 6,500 students, and serves as the key liaison for more than two dozen diocesan offices running The Great Adventure. Kelly also serves with Jeff Cavins as the program manager at the Archbishop Harry J. Flynn Catechetical Institute in St. Paul and is the director of the National Catholic Bible Conference. She is the editor of Catholicism 101, and is pursuing a master's degree in Sacred Scripture at the Augustine Institute in Denver. Kelly resides in Minnesota with her husband, Andy, and their three children.
